Information about Transfer Interviews for Psychologists Licensed in the US

This is not an open book exam. No books or papers are permitted in the exam room. Electronic devices must be turned off and taping is not permitted. No external aids, written or electronic notes are permitted as reference material during the exam. The content is confidential.

Fee: The fee is Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) and payable one week in advance of the interview. The Board accepts payment online by cheque, Visa, MasterCard, and American Express. All fees (i.e. Transfer Interview and Registration) can be paid online using credit card. To pay your fees online, visit the Applicants section of the website (www.nsbep.org) and select the Online Payments for Applicants tab. Alternatively, you may call or fax your credit card information into the office or send payment by mail.

Preparation: NSBEP uses the Canadian Code of Ethics for Psychologists, which is different from codes used in the US. In addition to being familiar with the Canadian Code, you will also need to be familiar with the Code's decision making process for dealing with ethical dilemmas. You will be asked questions about Canadian Code and the decision-making process during your interview.

Applicants may find it helpful to complete the course Being an Ethical Psychologist from the Canadian Psychological Association. You can obtain information about this course from the website of the Canadian Psychological Association (CPA). Here is the URL: <https://forward.captus.com/cpa/sitepages/courses.aspx>
(You will need to scroll down on the resulting page to locate the referenced course)

Additionally, while this is not specifically a jurisprudence exam, it would be helpful for applicants to have already completed the Attestation Process prior to their interview. The Attestation Process is required in order for applicants to review and familiarize themselves with local jurisprudence. As such, completion of this process involves reviewing the Board's document "Standards of Practice" and signing an attestation to this effect.

The Interview: This is not an open book interview. No books or papers are permitted in the exam room. Electronic devices must be turned off and taping is not permitted. The content is confidential.

The chair asks the applicant to describe his or her past work settings, to indicate some ethical dilemmas that have arisen, and to describe how they were resolved. Additionally applicants may be asked to discuss their intended work setting in Nova Scotia. Each member of the panel is free to ask questions and pose problems for the applicant's consideration. Because our registration is generic, the questions tend to focus on the actual work situation of the applicant rather than following a pre-arranged agenda. You will be asked questions about the principles of the Canadian Code of Ethics and about the Code's decision-making process. Nevertheless, the panel is not limited to the applicant's own examples, but is free to develop hypothetical scenarios, to ask about issues that the applicant may not have introduced, and so on. The questioning should continue until panel members are satisfied that they can make a recommendation to the Board, with confidence. The applicant is asked to leave and to wait nearby until the panel has deliberated and is in a position to offer feedback.

Post Interview feedback: When the applicant returns the panel offers feedback and indicates what recommendations it will make to the Board.

After the Interview: The chair of the panel completes a standard form indicating the panel's recommendation.

Options of the Board after a Transfer Interview: The Board may recommend that the applicant be placed on the Register of Psychologists, or be placed on the Register of Psychologists with Conditions. An example might be the completion of a period of supervised practice or an online learning module, while fully registered, in order to become familiar with the practice of psychology in Nova Scotia.
